

Teaching Assistant/Instructor (2018-2022) University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, New Mexico

I taught Introduction to Research Methods every spring and fall from the spring of semester of 2018 to the spring semester of 2022. I have taught on a Tuesday/Thursday and Monday/Wednesday/Friday schedule, as well as within a technology enhanced learning studio in the Collaborative Teaching and Learning Building and more traditional classroom settings. Although the course is designed for a face-to-face format, I have adopted material to work online as well. I have taught over 300 students over eight semesters.

Evaluation and Development Specialist (2019-2022) Apex Evaluation, Albuquerque, NM

In addition to writing proposals for federal grants and private foundations, I consulted on research and evaluation projects related to school-based health centers, positive youth development, and prescription drug overdose prevention and safe prescribing practices. This included work with the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, Road Runner Food Bank, Future Focused Education, and the National Association of School Based Health Centers.

Research Assistant (2014-2019) University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, New Mexico

At UNM, I have worked on an NIMHD-funded R01 study that tests the effectiveness of an innovative, community-based advocacy, learning, and social support intervention (Refugee Well-being Project) to reduce the mental health disparities experienced by low-income refugee adults by addressing several well-defined social determinants of mental health and increasing refugees' engagement in trauma treatment, when warranted. I conducted interviews and performed qualitative and quantitative data analysis. From the Refugee Well-being Project, I have co-authored four peer-reviewed publications and am involved in two additional manuscripts in preparation. I have also been a member of the New Mexico Learning and Evaluation Consortium providing technical assistance to W.K. Kellogg Foundation Grantees on evaluation activities (2015-2018).

Research Associate (2009-2016). Center for Social Innovation (C4), Needham, MA

The Center of Social Innovation conducts research, evaluation, training, and technical assistance to improve the lives of vulnerable populations, with particular emphasis on housing and homelessness, recovery (across the lifespan), and healthcare policy. My responsibilities included managing and providing research support to small business innovation research grants (funded by NIMH, NIA, and CDC); conducting contracted work for the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (e.g., under the Housing and Homelessness Resource Network (HHRN) and Bringing Recovery Supports to Scale Technical Assistance Center Strategy (BRSS TACS) technical assistance contracts); writing business and research proposals; and managing Institutional Review Board applications. This position was full-time from 2009 until 2014. August 2014 to August 2016, I was on staff as a part-time on-call employee.

Adjunct Instructor (2012-Present) Communication Department, Lasell University, Newton, MA. At Lasell College, I have participated in the Communication Department Advisory Board and developed and facilitated online and hybrid (face-to-face and online) graduate courses in health communication and health campaign development.

Graduate Consultant (January 2010 to May 2010) Johnson and Wales University, Providence, RI I designed and implemented a communication research project to reduce binge-drinking among college students as part of an Applied Learning Experience (ALE) at Emerson College. I created data collection instruments, recruited participants, conducted focus groups, and analyzed data. The project concluded with a 65-page final report.

Graduate Student Intern, (2008-2009) Brookline Health Department, Brookline, MA
At the Brookline Health Department, I conducted focus groups for a toolkit that incorporated town-wide collaborative intervention strategies to address compulsive hoarding. Acted as a contributing member of the Brookline Hoarding Task Force.

Milieu Counselor, (2008-2009) Cambridge Hospital, Cambridge, MA I provided direct care services for children with psychiatric needs. I also wrote individualized reports to inform treatment plans and psychiatric evaluations, was trained to use the collaborative problem solving model and assisted children with transition to and from the hospital.

Research Assistant, (2002-2008) Pro-Change Behavior Systems, Kingston, RI Pro-Change is a small business that develops online behavior change interventions using the Transtheoretical Model as its framework. At Pro-Change, I coordinated recruitment and data collection for 12 agencies in a 900-person Phase II Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) study to end domestic violence among men in court mandated batterer intervention programs. I also worked on research to help prevent re-adjudication of adolescents and, separately, to help adolescents engage in healthy behaviors such as physical activity and eating more fruit and vegetables.

Direct Care Counselor (June 2002 to December 2002) Penn-Mar Organization, Inc. Maryland Line, MD I provided care for developmentally disabled adults in a residential setting. I also assisted in the development of individual habilitation plans for residents, scheduled and transported residents to medical appointments, and administered medications.

Previous Research Support

Recovery Roadmap

This 18-month pilot study in collaboration with Yale University's Program for Recovery and Community Health (PRCH), will adapt PRCH's existing field-tested training content for Person-Centered Planning into an online interactive educational recovery planning toolkit designed to be jointly used by people in recovery and their providers. The team will test the effectiveness of the online training against online training plus a 2-day in-person training. This Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) Phase I Grant is funded through the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH).

Funding Agency: NIMH
Funding Level: $ 349,000
Role in Project: Research Support
Project Dates: May 2013 through November 2014

Online Tool to Recognize and Respond to Elder Homelessness

NIA 1R43AG041537-01 Zerger (PI) Phase I: 9/11-03/12

This project was designed to increase awareness of health and human service providers regarding the risks of homelessness among their elderly clients and help them rapidly connect their clients with necessary community support and resources. Role: Research Analyst

Evidence-Based Practice in Community-Based Social Work: A Multi-Media Strategy

NIMH HHSN271200800027C Olivet (PI) Phase II: 09/10-08/12

This web-based initiative provided online training to social workers on evidence-based practices, focusing on Critical Time Intervention (CTI). The goal of this randomized controlled trial was to evaluate client outcomes and fidelity to the CTI model of agencies that received the web-based training and agencies that received traditional in-person training. Role: Research Analyst

READY: Evaluation of a Multi-Media Disaster Preparedness Tool for Homeless Services

CDC 200-2010-M-34923 Centrone (PI)

Phase I: 07/10-12/10

This exploratory study investigated how six subgroups (n=3 in each) of health and social service administrators and direct service staff used and learned from “Ready: A Multimedia Disaster Preparedness Tool for Homeless Services,” and how they incorporated learning into their organizational preparedness efforts. The study aimed to identify factors most likely to influence acquisition and retention of knowledge, and short- and long-term behavior change.

Role: Research Analyst

Qualitative Research on Care Giver Abuse

NMSS Grant HC 0098, Bassuk (PI)

08/09-present

The specific aims of this study are to: develop a draft survey to identify victims of abuse and a draft survey to identify abusive caregivers; conduct cognitive tests of both instruments and revise and identify preferred methods of administration; pretest both instruments for psychometric assessment; and pilot test the instruments with subjects of known status. Role: Project Manager

Multi-Media Obesity Prevention Program for Adolescents

NHLBI R43 HL074482-01 Mauriello (PI)

Phase II 07/05-09/07

The goal of this project was to assess the efficacy of a computer-administered Transtheoretical Model-based intervention for obesity prevention delivered to high school students.

Role: Project Assistant

Processes of Resistance in Domestic Violence Offenders

NIJ 2003 IJCX1030 Levesque (PI)

10/03-05/06

The goal of this research was to develop and validate measures of processes of resistance (activities that inhibit change) in domestic violence offenders. Role: Project Assistant

Expert System Intervention for Domestic Violence Offenders

NIMH R44 MH62858-02 Levesque (PI)

Phase II 07/02-02/07

The goal of this project was to assess the efficacy of a computer-administered Transtheoretical Model-based intervention that would be delivered as an adjunct to traditional batterer treatment.

Role: Project Assistant

A Stage Based Expert System for Teen Dating Violence Prevention

CDC R43 CE000499 Levesque (PI)

Phase I 09/05-11/06

The goal of this research was to develop and pilot-test a prototype of a Transtheoretical Model-based multimedia expert system for teen dating violence prevention that focuses on healthy relationship skills. Role: Project Assistant
